

Admiral Sims Spurns Daniel's War Decoration

Unless Officers Recommended by Him for Honor Medal Receives Same

Washington, Dec. 23.—Rumblings of dissatisfaction within the navy at the way Secretary Daniels has arranged the awards of decorations for war service came to the surface today when it became known that Admiral Sims, former commander of American naval forces in European waters, had declined to accept his distinguished service medal, while the awards remain as at present.

Fight to Congress

At the same time, the row which up to this time has been a smoldering one, gave intimation of showing up in congress. Chairman Page of the senate naval committee, asked for a report on the awarding of the decorations which Secretary Daniels transmitted to him tonight. Meanwhile Representative Lufkin, Republican of Massachusetts, a member of the house naval committee, announced that he would ask the house to call for a similar report.

Coming as the climax to published charges that Secretary Daniels had rearranged the whole list of awards, raising some officers to higher distinction than recommended and "blue pencilling" others, publication of Admiral Sims' action, created a new chapter to the long contest in which some naval officers have complained of the secretary's administration and others with equal vigor have defended him.

Admiral Sims' Action

The whole thing has been brought to a head by the action of Admiral Sims, who is writing an official communication to Secretary Daniels from the naval war college at Newport, R. I., has set out that officers for whom he recommended the distinguished service medal—highest of all naval decorations except the congressional medal of honor—received by the secretary's revision, a decoration of lesser value, and that other officers whose duties and service Admiral Sims considered as of lesser value, received by the revision the more valued decorations.

At the same time, it develops, Admiral Sims sent franked copies of his letter to many naval officers in Washington. His action became known first through them, and later today Mr. Daniels gave out the letter, without comment. Earlier in the day, however, Mr. Daniels had announced that he had prepared the report asked for by Senator Page and tonight, after transmitting it to the senate, made public copies of it.

Conditional Refusal

Admiral Sims, in his letter, does not refuse his decoration unconditionally. He refuses it under the conditions he outlines and he asks for an opportunity to explain the reasons for his original recommendations. The admiral does not ask that the highest award be taken from any officer upon whom it has been conferred, but asks for a revision upward of some of the lesser decorations.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels to carry out the recommendations of Admiral Sims on awarding naval decorations will be fought to a finish.

Admiral Sims, who is president of the naval war college, said he did not wish to be regarded as a mere "rubber stamp" in affairs calling for his decision and determination.

Northcliff Press Praises Lloyd George

By ED. L. KEEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, Dec. 24.—Some political observers today saw in the unanimous laudatory attitude assumed by the Northcliffe press toward Premier Lloyd George's Irish proposal a possible rapprochement between the great publisher and the statesman.

Both the London Times and Mail leading Northcliffe publications, were profuse in praise of the premier's plan. Heretofore these newspapers have been bitter in attacking the premier following Northcliffe's break with him at the peace conference.

Evening papers yesterday continued showers of praise which has been heaped upon the premier.

Premier Lloyd George gives the world an example of British statesmanship, the Evening Globe declared, while the Westminster Gazette said no American could condemn it fairly.

IRISH SECESSION WILL BE FOUGHT, PREMIER AVERS

Lloyd George Outlines New Plan for Rule in the Emerald Isle

London, Dec. 23.—Premier Lloyd George outlined the government's proposals for Ireland in a long statement in the house of commons yesterday. Speaking with great deliberation and emphasis, he declared:

"Great Britain cannot accept separation. The people who think Britain can be forced into it have not read the story of the last five years.

Any attempt at secession, the premier announced, would be fought with the same determination, force and resolution as had been shown by the northern states in America.

The premier began by remarking upon the extreme difficulty of the task—"difficult indeed," he said, "after such a discreditable outrage as has just been perpetrated at Dublin."

Reviewing the position of Irish affairs he said that nobody in Ireland wanted the act of 1914. In the existing circumstances no possible scheme for Irish home rule was universally acceptable and parliament must assume the responsibility and propose what it thought fair and just.

The premier said it was proposed to establish self-government over the whole of Ireland and to create two parliaments, one in the north and one in the south. Every opportunity would be given Ireland to establish unity, if she desired it, and a council would be established at the outset, selected by the two legislatures and form a connecting link between the two parts of the country.

The two legislatures to be created in Ireland, the premier said, would be clothed with full constituent powers to create a single Irish legislature to discharge all powers not specifically reserved to the imperial parliament.

Uncertain as to When the Treaty Will Be Exchange

German Delegates Later Decide They Will Not Have to Return to Berlin before Signing

(By United Press)

Paris, Dec. 24.—Considerable doubt still exists today as to when peace will be declared owing to the attitude of the German delegation toward the allies latest note demanding that Germany accept the protocol.

Baron Kurt Von Lersner, head of the German delegation, announced he would have to return to Berlin to consult with his government when the note was first handed him yesterday. Later he said he would remain in Paris. He had previously said he had full power to act for his government, and the premature announcement that he was returning to Berlin came as a thunderbolt to Paris when published in early editions of yesterday's papers. It was generally believed for a time a rupture in negotiations had occurred. Later the newspapers were notified the Germans would remain in Paris. French official circles believe Von Lersner acted purely on his own initiative in making the premature announcement. They believe the contents of the allied note so surprised him he really believe he would have to consult his government. After consultation with his colleagues, it was supposed the Germans decided such a course would not be necessary.

Wounded Soldiers Making Christmas Toys in Hospital Workshop

Many New Yorkers who did their Christmas shopping early have bought toys made by convalescent soldiers at the United States Army hospital at Fox Hills, Staten Island. In this photograph is shown a group of soldiers in the occupational therapy workshop engaged in metal working. Such work not only occupies their minds and takes away the monotony of hospital routine but special work is assigned to individual "cases" and the patients have shown much improvement. In some cases, soldiers with wounded arms still in plaster casts use screw drivers and similar tools to help restore the muscles. Work is found to restore strength in every part of the body.

"Suffering From Malnutrition"

St. Paul, Dec. 24—(Special)—More than 150,000 Minnesota children are suffering from malnutrition and the H. C. L. is not to blame either, according to officials of the Minnesota Public Health Association, today.

Actual tests made in various parts of the country have shown that the average number of under-nourished children in every 100 is thirty. This condition exists, not because of the lack of food, health experts assert, but because American mothers are not giving their children the right kind of food. They emphasize that the right kind is not necessarily more costly than the wrong kind but in fact oftentimes costs less.

Federal officials estimate that 6,000,000—or about one-fifth, of all school children in the United States are under-nourished.

Clinics to aid Minnesota mothers in learning to give their children the proper kind of nutrition are to be held in every county in the state next year, under present plans of the Minnesota Public Health Association and affiliated county health organizations.

These nutritional clinics and other vital public health activities will only be possible, however, if the Red Cross Christmas Seal Sale, which is to end Christmas Day, is a success. Minnesota's allotment is $250,000 or about 10 cents' worth of seals for every inhabitant of the state. The money raised through the sale of the Christmas Seals and Health Bonds will be used to conduct the nutritional clinics and for other phases of the war against disease in every county in the state.

Since July 1, 104 baby clinics have been conducted in this state under the direction of the Minnesota Public Health Association, in co-operation with the Northwestern Pediatric society. These permitted the examination of 3,629 babies of whom 1,196 were found by the physicians and surgeons to be in need of treatment. These clinics were held in 43 counties.

The voluntary health organization also conducts dental tuberculosis, psychiatric, maternal and other clinics and health demonstrations. All this work is financed by funds raised through the sale of Christmas Seals and Health Bonds.

That there is vital need for a strenuous fight to save Minnesota babies, is evidenced by figures compiled by the State Board of Health, which show that 5,787 children under 5 years of age died during 1918 in this state. A vast number of these deaths could have been prevented if the public better understood health needs and how to fight disease, and more adequate facilities for safe-guarding health existed, health experts emphasized.

Deaths of Minnesota children under one year of age totaled 3,987, in 1918; between 1 and 2 years, 796; between 2 and 3 years, 467; between 3 and 4 years, 292 and between 4 and 5 years, 245.

Hat Which Created a Sensation in Paris

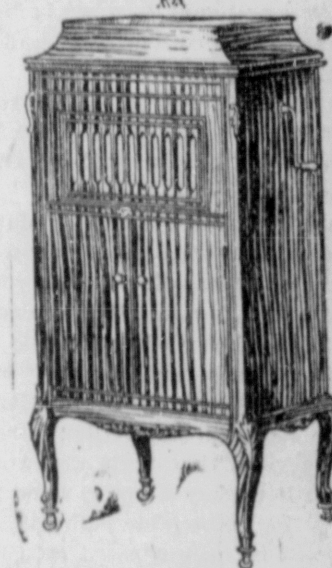

Although undoubtedly he should have, the photographer furnished no name with this photograph which he prosaically describes as "showing the latest hat from Paris." It was one of the most stunning creations seen on the Bois de Boulogne. A velvet crown circled by a broad, sweeping brim and a paradise plume on the side adds a dash of brilliant color.

POSTOFFICE NOTICE
The postoffice will be closed Christmas day, Dec. 25, but there will be one delivery by city and rural carriers.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!
The Dispatch wishes each reader of the paper a Merry Christmas and may you be happy at your home and fireside. May contentment and good cheer radiate their blessings.

To allow Dispatch employees to properly celebrate the day, no Daily Dispatch will be printed on Christmas.

Christmas is not a real holiday and you are not entirely blessed with a feeling of satisfaction unless you see that no one in your block is neglected. If you know of some little child to whom Christmas joys may be denied, appoint yourself a committee of one to look up Santa Claus and see that he gives that little girl a dollie or that little boy a toy of some kind. If it is the inalienable right of childhood not to be neglected on Christmas-tide. Make it your duty to see that childhood gets its due measure of happiness.

In the city at large organizations blessed with public spirit and good heartedness combined to make a Merry Christmas for many families who otherwise might have been neglected. If each who gave from his plenty could have looked into the hearts and saw reflected on the faces of the recipients the happiness there reflected, he would feel amply repaid for his labor. It was good work and did its share to let all know we are linked together in a common brotherhood.

May the spirit of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill Towards All Men" continue to shine unabated and exemplify itself in good works.

PUTTING DOWN THE REDS

President Butler of Columbia is right in saying that the instant and most vital thing for Americans to do now, the thing on which all Americans should unite without regard to politics, is the smashing of the Bolsheviks and the I. W. W. All over the country we watch sight every day of the unrelenting activities of these enemies of the United States and of every free, orderly government. The number of these destructionists in our own city is great. The number of their organs in English and in foreign tongues is great. Rich, "superior" men and women of New York, persons who suppose themselves to be "intellectuals" because they have lost the prime and common feeling of American patriotism, endow and support Bolshevik periodicals with a circulation of 3,000,000.

"Do you realize," asks President Butler, "that within a mile or two of this room, there could be counted fifty meetings, each attended by from a score to a hundred men and women, where everything for which this country stands is being attacked?" The enemy is here and everywhere. In President Butler's words, "we must repeat the great demonstration of 1917 and summon all the resources of America not for war overseas, but for a war at home. We must repress, deport, make impotent the irreconcilable radicals. To them no mercy should be shown. The country is full of violent aliens who should be made to leave it for its good. Meanwhile the great mass, not yet hopeless, of aliens in the United States must be taught to know what the American institutions are which so many blatant agitators, alien and native, are seeking to subvert. And this immense foreign population, neither speaking nor thinking American, must be taught to speak and think American.—New York Times.

Mother Accused of Murder and Her Little Son Whose Body Was Found in the Ocean

Mrs. Esther Miller Blake is held a prisoner in the Atlantic City, N. J., hospital on the charge of having murdered her five-year-old son "Buddie." She maintained that two Negroes kidnapped the child and robbed her while she had out for a walk, but when his body was washed up near a pier at Ventnor, a suburb of Atlantic City, she was placed under arrest. She had previously been under guard as it was feared that she might injure herself. Mrs. Blake has been separated from her husband, James M. Blake, a Philadelphia insurance broker, for four years. The photograph shows detectives taking Mrs. Blake to the hospital. In the insert is seen her little son.

NORTHWEST NEWS

Motor Show
Minneapolis, Dec. 24—Plans are rapidly maturing here for the northwest's biggest motor and industrial show which opens Jan. 31 for a week's run.

The exposition will be of national scope and industrial leaders expect to make it one of the biggest in the country for 1920.

"The Twin Cities Automobile, Truck, Tractor and Industrial Exposition" is the official title that will be placed over every entrance to the big Overland building where the thousands of motors, accessories and machines will be placed.

Yuletide at Home

St. Paul, Dec. 24—Tomorrow will be the first Yuletide at home for thousands of Yanks who knocked the "germ" out of Germany, and the home folks are making merry.

Two years ago most of the northwest's returned soldiers were in training camps.

Last Christmas all they had was the hope of getting home some time.

Tomorrow there will be an extra helping of everything on the Christmas table for the soldiers who have returned from overseas and the camps. It will help to make up for some of the things the fighters missed last year when many of them were completely out of touch with home—away off in a tiny French or German village wondering if they ever would get home again.

Shot While on a Rabbit Hunt

St. Paul, Dec. 24—Ralph Johnson, 12, and Richard Dugan, 15, who on December 13 while hunting rabbits shot and killed Matthew Smith, aged caretaker of St. Joseph's novitiate, today appeared before Judge Orr in juvenile court here charged with manslaughter.

The lads according to their stories were hunting and were unaware that they were trespassing when Smith came rushing on them demanding that they move at once. The lads claimed they were preparing to obey when Smith grabbed one of their rifles. They pleaded in vain for the return of the gun.

Smith, according to their story, then made several threatening movements toward them. The Dugan boy fired a shot into the ground thinking this would scare Smith into returning the gun and when Smith remained obdurate, the boy fired again, as he thought at the ground, but Smith fell dead. The boys grabbed the gun and went home.

They told their mothers of the affair thinking Smith was only wounded. They did not know of his death until the arrival of the Sunday papers.

The case was slated for hearing Dec. 17 but was postponed to allow Dugan's father, who was out of the city, time to return.

CANADA INVADED BY EAGLE
Bird Was Seemingly Tired After Long Trip, and Was Easily Captured; Given Name.

The American eagle recently spread its wings majestically over Canadian soil. The eagle—a real one by the way—sawed from somewhere and landed in Sandwich, Ont. Whence he came, nobody knows. But it was from a long way off, as he was manifestly exhausted when he alighted on the roof of a new house at the corner of 4th and Peter streets. It was just about noon, and children coming from school espied him, says the Detroit News.

The bird stayed on his perch for some time, when the mob gathered below. The eagle surveyed the crowd in a bored manner during the minutes when he was not engaged in searching with his beak for something or things under his feathers. The crowd became larger and more threatening. Finally one braver than the rest, evidently a Briton without guile, cast the first stone.

The American eagle spread his wings to their full extent and, waiting not for the year of parity between disputant nations, fluttered to the ground.

Down the streets of Sandwich the ground bird trotted with unburied out dangerous steps. Through a gauntlet of citizens he ran, Indian like, turning his beak from right to left with such new step to peck at some venturesome bystander or over-ardent pursuer. It looked for a time as if the bird would not be captured. But he finally came to a man whose attitude was not hostile. With scarcely a struggle the eagle gave in.

His captor was Clyde Thornton, 31 Peters street, an American citizen. During the remainder of the day the Sandwich residents made tentative peace offerings in the form of pieces of meat. The bird accepted them ungraciously.

His name is Roosevelt, Thornton insists.

Royal Grapes at Low Prices.
The vine which belonged to the kings of France still exists at Fontainebleau and bears fruit. One day in September the administration of the demesnes, according to established custom, sold the grapes by award. There were 600 kilos of grapes, and the astonishing thing is that they sold for 525 francs! Yet the little common grapes to be bought on the Paris street barrows fetch from 20 to 25 sous the pound. Royal grapes grow cheap these days in France, it would seem. Those purchasers must have thought themselves fortunate; cheap and good is not a combination often to be met with in France nowadays.

"THE SHEPHERDS"
No. I—Introduction (Organ Solo)

No. II—(a) Recitative (tenor solo)

"And there were in the same country shepherds, Keeping watch over their flocks by night,
And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them
And the glory of the Lord shone round about them
And they were sore afraid."

(b) Chorus:

"It came upon the midnight clear
That glorious song of old
From angel's bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold
'Peace on the earth, good will to men
From heaven's all gracious King'
The world in solemn stillness lay
To hear the angels sing Still through the cloven skies they come
With peaceful wings unfurled
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world
Above its sad and lowly plains
They bend on hovering wing
And ever o'er its babel sounds
The blessed angels sing."

"I bring you good tidings of joy
Which shall be to all people
For unto you a child is born, unto you a son is given."

"Blessed be the Lord forever
Hallelujah, Amen
He shall reign forever—reign forever more."

No. III—(a) Recitative (Baritone Solo)

"And the shepherds said one to another
Let us go now even unto Bethlehem
And see this thing which the Lord
Hath made known unto us."

(b) Chorus:

"Sing and rejoice O daughters of Zion—Sing.
Rejoice for the promised one cometh
from glory.
While angels unnumbered repeat the
glad story,
Messiah is born. To earth comes this morn
By the angels attended the King of
all Kings
Messiah is born
In a manger there lieth the King of
all Kings.
Let the whole world now sing and rejoice
For the King of Kings is born
In the East shines His star
And the plains now are gleaming
From the glory light streaming
Where the angels in chorus the news
spread afar."

"Hark! the herald angels sing
Glory to the new-born King
Peace on earth, and mercy mild
God and sinners reconciled
Joyful all ye nations rise
Join the triumph of the skies
With th' angelic host proclaim
Christ is born in Bethlehem
Hark! the herald angels sing
Glory to the new-born King—Amen."

(c) Chorus:

"Hark! the herald angels sing
Glory to the new-born King
Peace on earth, and mercy mild
God and sinners reconciled
Joyful all ye nations rise
Join the triumph of the skies
With th' angelic host proclaim
Christ is born in Bethlehem
Hark! the herald angels sing

While angels unnumbered repeat the
glad story,
Messiah is born. To earth comes this
morn
By the angels attended the King of
all Kings
Messiah is born
In a manger there lieth the King of
all Kings.
Let the whole world now sing and rejoice
For the King of Kings is born
In the East shines His star
And the plains now are gleaming
From the glory light streaming
Where the angels in chorus the news
spread afar."

Christmastide.

Anderson had charge of the entertainment program, Mrs. C. L. Burnett of the music, Mrs. E. J. Quinn

DAIRYING BEST ON CUT-OVER LANDS

Dairying is the best type of farming for the cut-over lands of northern Minnesota, said A. J. McGuire of the Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul, in his bulletin on Land Clearing, issued as bulletin 154
by the Minnesota Experiment Station. Most cut-over land, adds Mr.
McGuire, can be converted into pasture at slight expense, and dairy cows will yield a splendid profit from this land without the necessity of removing the stumps, though sufficient land must be put under the plow or at least put in shape to produce hay to supply winter feed.

In connection with dairying the same bulletin says poultry raising should have an important place, and hogs should be raised to a limited extent. A herd of 10 cows, 100 chickens, and two or three brood sows, can be supported easily on a farm with 30 acres in plowed land.
From 5 to 7 acres of the farm may be devoted to potato growing. The field crops should be grain, clover, fodder corn, potatoes and stock roots.
Men practicing this system of farming have been able to sell from $1200 to $1500 worth of products a year from 30 acres or less of cleared land.

Eighty acres, Mr. McGuire believes is ample for a farm in the timbered section of northern Minnesota. It is usually a mistake, he thinks, for a man of limited means to invest in more. It is also a mistake for a man to begin farming on timber cut-over land without any capital. A man should have sufficient capital to enable him to devote the first year to clearing the land, putting at least 10 acres under cultivation.

WARNING TO WATER CON- SUMERS

It has become known that many consumers of city water are letting faucets, taps or toilet fixtures run to keep their line from freezing; also otherwise wilfully wasting water.
This is detrimental to the service other consumers are entitled to, and it endangers the whole city because it is interfering with the pressure needed in case of fire. The pumping plant is not equipped in a manner to permit needless wastage.

Notice is hereby given to all consumers that upon any indication that any one wilfully indulges in any of the above mentioned ways of wasting water, said water service shall be discontinued immediately.

FORD

The Universal Car

Weak Links in a Strong Chain

That's just what imitation parts are when they become a part of your Ford car. They look strong enough, but the metal isn't there—the strong, durable Vanadium steel that goes into the Ford chassis and every Ford part. Ford parts are specially cast and heat-treated, each according to its use. Some require a hard, flint-like wearing surface, others need resiliency, and some need just "toughness."

Ford metallurgists have been studying these problems for sixteen years and know just how each unit should be made to endure a maximum of wear and tear. They know that best results can be obtained only by the use of special formulas for different parts, that honest Ford parts wear from thirty-five to one hundred per cent longer than counterfeits.

We carry complete assortments of genuine Ford parts for both passenger cars and trucks. Drive in, it's better to be safe than sorry. Come to the Authorized Ford dealer for service.

Milton's Neat Retort.
It was in 1000, in the fifty-second year of his age, that Milton was visited in prison by Charles II, the restored Stuart king. "You see," said the monarch to the prisoner, "what a pass God has brought you to for your treason. He has stricken you with blindness and brought you to this loathsome dungeon." "But by your majesty's argument," replied Milton, "God thinks far more of me than he did of your father, for while he made me blind, he cut off your father's head."
